REPORT ON
"Info Session on Google Developer Student Clubs"
Organized by
(TECH CLUB)
Department of Computer Science and Engineering

The Tech Club of the Department of Computer Science & Engineering, Integral University, Lucknow, conducted an Introductory Session on Google Developer Student Club on September 16, 2023, in LT-2(B015) of Academic Block 1. The event took place under the direction of Dr. M. M. Tripathi (Faculty Adviser, Tech Club) & organized by Club Coordinators: Insha Khan, Md. Nehal Akhlaque, Ashish Kumar, and Ruhul Fatima Abdi.

Google Developer Student Clubs are university-based community groups for students interested in Google technologies and open source. There are Google Developer Student Clubs in over 110 countries around the world, and 700+ such clubs in India alone, that include undergraduate and graduate students.

The objective was to provide a platform for students to learn and explore various Google technologies & by actively participating in the upcoming events & campaigns, students will gain exposure to cutting-edge technologies and tools provided by Google.

Students were briefed about the upcoming Google Cloud Study Jam, starting this October, a Google's campaign all over India, which will help students upskill themselves with booming technologies like Generative AI & Cloud Computing, by getting access to exclusive courses on Google's Skills Boost Platform.

The event witnessed a remarkable turnout, with more than 100 enthusiastic students actively participating in the session and raising their queries.
